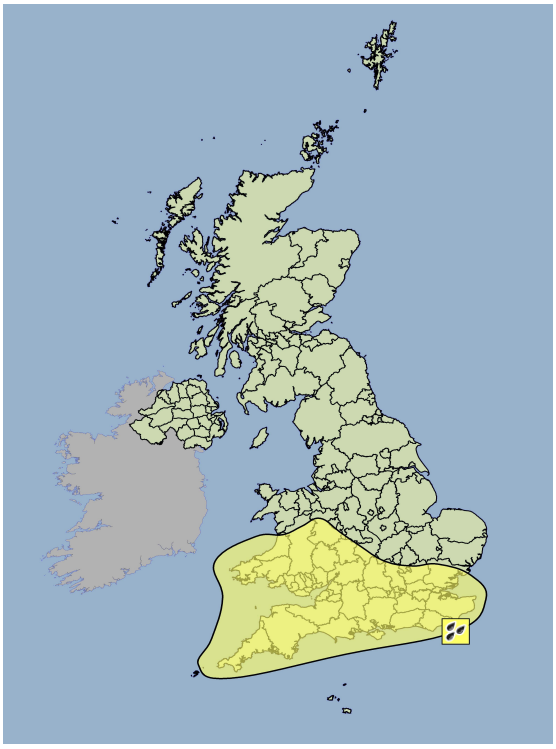
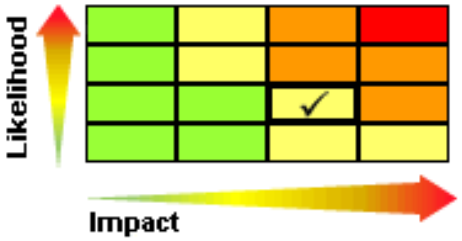
National Severe Weather Warning Service





Chief Forecasters Assessment
A deep area of low pressure will sweep active frontal systems across England and Wales. This will bring around 20 mm rainfall quite widely within the Yellow Warning Area, and more then 30 mm over some of the higher ground. Given the already saturated conditions, this will bring the risk of localised flooding.

The Met Office have issued a Yellow Warning of Rain

Valid from 12:00 on Mon, 23rd Dec 2013 until 07:00 on Tue, 24th Dec 2013

Spells of heavy rainfall will continue to affect much of southern Britain during Monday and overnight into Christmas Eve, clearing the southeast of England before dawn. This will fall onto saturated ground and lead to a risk of flooding.

This is an update to the warnings issued on Saturday and Sunday.

The public should be aware of the risk of localised flooding and disruption to transport due to a combination of rain and wind, for which see the separate wind warnings.
